

Alejandro was born in Parral. In 2014 he received a degree in Electrical and Electronic Engineer. His thesis consisted of the design and implementation of an isolated photovoltaic system for a telecommunications company in northern Chile. He joined Centro de Estudios Científicos CECs in March 2015 the area Glaciology and climate change, to work in telemetry and instrumentation, he has worked directly in glaciers, installing sensors, weather stations, cameras and data recovery. He is currently working in the design and implementation of a transmission system for stations weather and automatic cameras in Central Chile and Patagonian Glaciers.

CONTACT Phone : +56-63-2234535 E-mail : asilva@cecs.cl